

Dear parents: London really seems to be up against it just now. There can be a remarkable resilience to Londoners and it makes me very proud as a born and bred Londoner to witness this. It has been said endlessly but never can be said enough the courage of the London Fire Brigade in tackling that blaze was beyond heroic. The London Ambulance Service and Police response over the last few weeks equally amazing. Is it just me or did anyone else wonder why aren't the army down there responding to a disaster. They have experience of this kind all over the world in providing shelter, sanitation and bedding. Prayers for all the victims and those suffering.

and finally ..courage was shown last week at London Bridge but what courage does it take from the Fire Service to go into a towering inferno with scenes that resembled 9/11 ... amazing men and women read in yesterday's Standard that the cladding was made of ... plastic flammable material ... those two words do not belong in the same sentence corporate manslaughter perhaps awaits somebody anyway we won the World Cup again in 2017 well our under 20s did in an amazing game against Venezuela last Sunday enjoy the warm June sunshine busy days and some sad days.
